Russell and Myers, Boston Twirlers, Get Pounding; Peck Hits for Circuit

Babe Ruth hit his twenty-ninth and double victory over the Red Sox at the Pole Grounds yesterday afternoon. The Babe's first circuit clout sailed into the upper tier of the right field stands in the seventh inning of the first game. But the second, which was delivered in he first inning of the nightcap, cleared the first inning of the nightcap, charled the roof of the stands. Peckinpaugh also hit a homer in the fifth inning of the second contest. What with the Babe's home runs and What will the Babes nome runs and the fight bulletins streaming in, the re-sults of the games were only of sec-endary importance. Sufficient to say that the scores were 5 to 3 and 5 to 1 in favor of the Yankees.

pitching great ball and allowed only five hits.

The Yankees found Elmer Myers for three runs in the first inning, including Ruth's second home run, and the demage was done. Karr, who succeeded him, held the Yankees to two runs. Waite Hoyt pitched great ball for the home aggregation, allowing only seven hits. The youngster was never in danger and the only Sox run came in the eighth inning, when he eased up. The 30,000 fans who came out for the double bill had plenty of chances for recting in the eighth inning of the first game. A horde of announcers megaphoned the fact that Dempsey had knocked out Carpentier and the crowd was in an uproar.

The locals scored two more in the second, when Russell could not locate the plate. He passed three batters and hit one in this round. Ward was hit by a pitched ball and advanced to second when Hoffman walked. Collins singled to right, scoring Ward with the first run of the inning. The Sox finally got a run across in the fifth as the result of a wild pitch by Collins. Scott singled and after Walters had flied out Russell also hit safely, advancing Scott to second. Both Scott and Russell moved up on Shano Collins's infield out. Foster walked, filling the bases, and then Collins unleashed his wild pitch. Scott scoring. Menosky ended the inning by flying to Meusel.

The Yankees also scored a run in their half of the fifth, when Shano Collins made an inexcusable error on Pipp's fly. Ruth had walked, stolen second and was roosting on third as the result of Meusel's scratch single when Collins committed the error, and the Babe easily tallied.

In the seventh inning Babe Ruth hit his twenty-ninth homer of the season into the upper tier of the rightfield stands and with one out and no one on base

Myers Gets Pounding

Myers Gets Pounding

The Yankees routed Elmer Myers in the first inning under an avalanche of four hits for three runs. Myers was sent to the showers after the first four batters had hit safely and Karr was sent in to relieve him. Fewster opened with a double to right and scored when Peck singled to left. Ruth then lifted the ball over the top of the right field grandstand for his second home run in succession and Peck romped home ahead of him. Baker followed with a single to left and that was the end of Myers. Karr retired the side without farther damage.

Giants and Yankees Particularly Are Falling Behind Their Form Strength

By Charles A. Taylor

It is high time that an inventory be taken of the pennant chances of the Giants and the Yankees. The wissacres have taken the utmost delight in predicting that the whole world seriousness would be perpetrated on the Polo Grounds. This stand of course in the ground was heavy from last night's downpour and almost the entire first game was played in a drizzle. Neither of the new Philly acquisitions—King and any recently secured.

The present situation finds the aspiring Giants and Yanks some four games in the ruck and the champion Dodgers a mile behind. It is a peculiar situation, when it is considered on paper that each of these home nines should win in a romp. Of course, in the National it is impossible for both local teams to score a triumph, but one or the other ought to produce.

The Dodgers do wonderfully well in spots, but just when a winning streak is in the offing they seem to be imbued with the same narcotic that keeps all our home nines fighting camely but a few laps behind the other
